

The Agony Column

October 17th, 2011

Lisa Randall on Science, Jacqueline Novogratz on Poverty

[haiku url="http://audio1.cruzio.com/kusp/pod/agony/2011/10/16.mp3" graphical="true"]

Harvard physicist Lisa Randall discusses recent developments in science and her new book "Knocking on Heaven's Door" which looks at the role of science in society. Jacqueline Novogratz of the Acumen Fund, a microfinance organization, talks about "The Blue Sweater", a treatment of the subject of people from both rich and poor countries working together to end poverty by encouraging entrepreneurialism.

Facebook Twitter ShareThis Email Donate

About

Producer Rick Kleffel reports on literature, technology and whatever he can talk his editor into for National Public Radio. He rarely sleeps and sometimes plays electronic music.

Broadcast: Sundays at 6pm
Subscribe: iTunes / RSS Contact: Email
Rick website: Bookotron.com

Recent Shows

Agony Column

Two American Masters of the Short Story
Jan 2, 2014

Best Books of 2013 – Recommended by the Agony Column
Dec 24, 2013

Authors: Jonathan Lethem and Frank Schatzing
Dec 16, 2013

Susan Stinson: Spider in a Tree
Dec 9, 2013

Talking About 'The New American Meal' with Molly Katzen, Michael Pollan and Ann Vileisis
Dec 2, 2013

Life With Mom the Pornographer
Nov 24, 2013

Dan Simmons Summits Everest in 'The Abominable'
Nov 15, 2013

Interview with Bill Bryson
Nov 11, 2013

Interview with Margaret Atwood
Nov 4, 2013

Hannah Kent's Novel of Murder in Iceland: 'Burial Rites'
Oct 28, 2013

more archives...

Suggested Links

- Bookotron
- KUSP Homepage
- KUSP Blogs
- KUSP on Twitter
- KUSP on Facebook

Leave a Reply

Name
Mail (will not be published)
Website

« "The Night Circus". Alan Cheuse "Lost Memory of Skin". Deborah Beale and Tad Williams »